AWF's Summer Conservation Education Workshop #1:

Discovering Our Heritage through the Outdoors Educators' Workshop (June 13-16, 2011)

Workshop Description: If you would like to learn about Alabama's natural diversity and how to incorporate conservation/environmental education into your curriculum, then plan on joining us for the Discovering Our Heritage (DOH) workshop . This workshop will be conducted from a hands-on, inquiry based approach where participants take part in a variety of activities with a multidisciplinary approach. This workshop is the perfect way for K-12 educators to learn about the DOH program, a model educational program that incorporates environmental education as a means by which to integrate the teaching of history, geography, science, mathematics, and language arts on a day-to-day basis and receive hands-on training in a variety of quality resources. Educators will participate in field trips, hands-on activities, and pertinent discussions that focus on the importance of Alabama's forest, wildlife, and natural resources while also emphasizing the importance of being good stewards of our environment.

Participants will also examine the influence these resources have had culturally, historically and economically as well as discuss how Alabama's future and ours is still connected to its natural diversity. Come join us for a great time and be prepared to return home with lots of resources and ideas that you can share with your students during the coming school year.
